Linus Pauling Distinguished Postdoctoral Fellowship

Pacific Northwest National Laboratory is seeking the next generation of scientists and engineers for the Linus Pauling Distinguished Postdoctoral Fellowship.

Pauling Fellows are

- mentored by internationally recognized scientists
- equipped with resources to carry out research of their own design
- enabled to contribute to research efforts that advance scientific frontiers and solve pressing challenges for the nation

"With the freedom to pursue my own research path, along with the high level of scientific colleagues and facilities at PNNL, the Pauling Fellowship has provided me the opportunities that usually require 10-20 years of a scientific career – right out of graduate school."

– LUIS ESTEVEZ
